

GUIDELINES FOR AUTHORS

The Kentucky Medical Association (KMA) has published a medical journal for more than 100 years. The Journal of the KMA is published monthly under the direction of the Board of Trustees and is indexed by the National Library of Medicine in Index Medicus/MEDLINE. Articles will be accepted for consideration with the understanding that they are original and are contributed solely to this Journal. Preference is given to articles of importance to practicing physicians and medical educators in Kentucky and those that deal with issues related to the health and well-being of Kentuckians.

Submission—Electronic submission is preferred, and the document should be e-mailed to the managing editor at heckel@kyma.org. If a hard copy is sent, please retain a copy for proofreading and submit the original and one copy to Sharon Heckel, Managing Editor, Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association, 4965 US Hwy 42, Suite 2000, Louisville, KY 40222. The cover letter should designate one author as correspondent and include the author's address, telephone number, fax number, and e-mail address. Receipt of manuscripts will be acknowledged and unused manuscripts returned.

Copyright Assignment—A copyright transmittal letter to the editor must contain the following language and must be signed by all authors: In consideration of the Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association taking action in reviewing and editing our submission, the author(s) undersigned hereby transfer(s), assign(s), or otherwise convey(s) all copyright ownership to the Kentucky Medical Association in the event such work is published by the Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association and/or published in other venues of the Kentucky Medical Association. The Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association is copyrighted by the Kentucky Medical Association. Written permission from the editor must be obtained before reproducing any material published in the Journal.

Conflicts—Authors must reveal any potential conflicts that might exist between themselves and other entities or persons. In this regard, authors are responsible for disclosing any financial and/or personal relationship that might bias their work product or article.

Preparation—Manuscripts should be typewritten in double spacing throughout, including references, tables, legends, quotations, and acknowledgements. Ordinarily, articles should not exceed 3,000 words in length. Titles should include the words most suitable for indexing the article, should stress the main point, and should be short. Bylines may contain no more than six names and shall include only those individuals who can attest that they have contributed significantly to the article. Other contributors may be recognized in an acknowledgment. The full names of all authors should be included, along with their highest academic degrees and professional/institutional affiliations. A synopsis-abstract must accompany all scientific manuscripts. The abstract should be a factual (not descriptive) summary, and should briefly state the question considered, the methods used, the results, and the conclusions supported by those results.

References—References must be typed in double spacing on separate sheets and numbered consecutively as they are cited in the text. All references should be cited as superscripts, not footnotes, within the manuscript. There should be no more than 30 references, and they should conform to the AMA Manual of Style, 10th edition. Authors are responsible for reference accuracy. The minimum acceptable data include:

Journals: Authors, article title, journal, year, volume, issue number, inclusive pages

Books: Author, title, place of publication, publisher, year

Other sources: Enough information so that the material can be identified and retrieved

Illustrations—All illustrations, photographs, tables, charts, and figures must be submitted as separate images and not embedded in the text. Electronic versions (tiff, pdf, jpg) are preferred, and photographs should be at high resolution (300 DPI or better). Otherwise, illustrations must be submitted in duplicate and the sequence number and author's name should appear on the back of each. Legends for illustrations should be typewritten (double-spaced) on a separate sheet. Tables must have a title and be numbered. Illustrations other than the author's will not be accepted for publication unless accompanied by written permission from the original source. If a patient in a photo is identifiable, a written release form from the subject must accompany the photo. The author will be billed for the cost of reproduction of illustrated material for publication in excess of three average illustrations and/or tables.

Style—Please use the JAMA style or consult the AMA Manual of Style, 10th edition. Use generic drug names, unless citing a brand name relevant to your findings; brand names in parentheses may follow generic names if desired. Do not use abbreviations in the title, and limit their use in the text.

Letters to the Editor—Letters should be written in clear, concise language, and the length should be about two pages, typed with double spacing. Letters will be published at the discretion of the Editorial Board.

Disclaimer—All material is reviewed by the Editorial Board. KMA and the editorial board assume no responsibility for the opinions, claims, and recommendations made in articles appearing in the Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association, nor does publication constitute an endorsement of the views expressed therein.
